New Coldstore , Botswana

Barpro has recently completed a STORAX mobile racking installation in Gaborone. The room will be able to store nearly 600 pallets when full. They will be using plastic pallets supported by mesh decks. These metal grids are made from either 5 or 6mm steel rods and are galvanized. Apertures can be varied in size to suit most pallet types. The mesh decks were installed by our site supervisor, Gary Smith, who said they were quick and easy to install.

Q: What is Good Housekeeping ?

A: The housekeeping in your cold store is one of the most important aspects of mobile maintenance. If your housekeeping is not up to standard, it could affect the operation of your STORAX mobile racking system.

Make sure that pallets are packed properly and any debris is cleared away often.

What can you do?

- Remove debris (plastic wrapping or wood from pallets) from floor and from troughs in the guide rails.
- Remove rubbish from wheel units, wheels and motors.
- The product stored should not weigh more than the maximum load for which the system was designed.
- Store your products on good quality pallets or crates.
- Have the pallets placed evenly across the load beams.

Following these tips can save you time and money as your mobiles will just keep running....

With great excitement we would like to inform you that we have recently purchased a lathe and milling machine. Barpro's workshop manager Danie Coetzee explains, "The new machinery means that we are able to manufacture several spares in-house, resulting in a more speedy delivery and less downtime for our clients." Danie is hoping to further improve our workshop in order to meet the demand of our clients.
